English translation:

Shahrazad: You are in school...there are Afghan schools. How is it for people who go to university...Afghans who go to university in Pakistan? If they want to go to University, is there some place for studying?

Muzhgan: Yes. If they graduate, if they have graduated from Pakistani schools, then they study in Pakistani universities.

Shahrazad: Okay. And if otherwise (if they have gone to Afghan schools)?

Muzhgan: In that case, I don't know clearly.

Shahrazad: Yes, because there is not an Afghan University (in Pakistan).

Muzhgan: Yes, it is not Afghan.

Shahrazad: How many Afghan schools are there in Peshawar? Do you think they are a lot?

Muzhgan: There is a good number, but it is not a lot. It is a few.

Shahrazad: It is not as many as it used to be.

Muzhgan: Yes, it is not as many as before.

Shahrazad: There were many Afghan schools, right?

Muzhgan: Yes, but many of them have failed.

Shahrazad: Yes, they are closed. Do their transcripts work in Afghanistan?

Muzhgan: Hmm... I don't know, it should.

Shaharzad: So you don't know. Now, if you study there, how about future? What will you do?

Muzhgan: No. They say it works. It will be useful.

Shaharzad: Will you be able to participate in Konkur (university entrance exam)?

Muzhgan: Yes, Konkur will work.

Shaharzad: That is really good.

Muzhgan: Many of our teachers were high school graduates. They participated in Konkur in Afghanistan, they got in, but they had cases, so they went to Canada. It didn't happen (going to university in Afghanistan).

Shaharzad: It didn't?

Muzhgan: Yes.

Shaharzad: You talked about going to Canada. Do many Afghans go to Western countries from Pakistan?

Muzhgan: Many Afghans, yes. If they have cases, they go.

Shaharzad: What do you mean by case? What kind of case?

Muzhgan: For example, if a family sponsors you abroad, it will happen. If you have 30 thousand dollars, you can invite a family.

Shaharzad: Okay. Then they go to universities and they apply there. Do you know many families who have gone abroad through this in Pakistan?

Muzhgan: I know three families.

Shaharzad: Do people still want to go abroad?

Muzhgan: Yes. They all want to. Because as I have heard that Pakistan says they will kick out the refugees, and many don't have homes (in Afghanistan). They want to go abroad.

Shaharzad: Yes, because they don't know where to go.

Muzhgan: Yes.

Shaharzad: Okay. Very well. Do you have anything else to say?

Muzhgan: No.

Shaharzad. Thanks a lot.
