English translation:

Y: We also make lemsamen, which is made with flour, a little bit of wheat, water to mix the dough and a little bit of salt. You mix the whole mixture to make the dough, which needs to be kneaded very well – you knead it very well. After that, we add a bit of oil, not olive oil but vegetable oil. Finally, we divide the dough into small balls and we roll them out. We roll out the dough and then we fold the four corners. Then finally, we take the frying pan, put a little bit of oil on it and we fry the lemsamen. And this is the Moroccan lemsamen.

About CultureTalk: CultureTalk is produced by the Five College Center for the Study of World Languages and housed on the LangMedia Website. The project provides students of language and culture with samples of people talking about their lives in the languages they use every day. The participants in CultureTalk interviews and discussions are of many different ages and walks of life. They are free to express themselves as they wish. The ideas and opinions presented here are those of the participants.
