English translation:

Asma: The most important method of transportation in Palestine is the bus. It's the easiest method, because anyone can take it. We have cars, but the number of people who own them is limited, so the easiest thing to take is the bus. University students and high-school students all use the buses to get around. We don't have trains or an airport, and if someone wants to travel from an airport he has to enter another country (like Egypt or Jordan) and leave from there. In general, the main systems of transport in Palestine are buses and cars.
