

English translation:

The twenty-seventh day of Ramadan is the Laylat al-Qadr. The whole year's best night. Everyone who intended, who umm.... This is the night when they are all accepted, the Laylat al-Qadr.

- What happened in Laylat al-Qadr?

- Our Holy Qur'an has fallen out of the sky on that night. This is the day that the book fell down. We call it the Laylat al-Qadr. On the twenty-seventh day, in a single day....

- And then the wishes?

- All the wishes, everything, whatever everyone is wishing, be it health, be it happy days, this is the night when all of these wishes are accepted by God. One single night of the whole year, and that is Laylat al-Qadr. It is one of the greatest nights.

- It is in the last week?

- Yes it is in the last week, the Laylat al-Qadr.¹

- Do you pray that night?

- We pray that night; we worship God. And if you are good enough, the sky opens up to you; it turns into white and opens up, and whatever you wish it is accepted, but not many people can see it. God knows.

About CultureTalk: CultureTalk is produced by the Five College Center for the Study of World Languages and housed on the LangMedia Website. The project provides students of language and culture with samples of people talking about their lives in the languages they use everyday. The participants in CultureTalk interviews and discussions are of many different ages and walks of life. They are free to express themselves as they wish. The ideas and opinions presented here are those of the participants. Inclusion in CultureTalk does not represent endorsement of these ideas or opinions by the Five College Center for the Study of World Languages, Five Colleges, Incorporated, or any of its member institutions: Amherst College, Hampshire College, Mount Holyoke College, Smith College and the University of Massachusetts at Amherst.

© 2003-2009 Five College Center for the Study of World Languages and Five Colleges, Incorporated

¹ They mean that it's in the last week of Ramadan.