

English Translation:

The airport system in Iraq is a system that is limited, as I can say; especially because, as I have said, we have been through many wars. And those wars imposed many restrictions regarding flying; I mean, land, sea, and sky, as we say. Regarding planes, it became hard for a person to travel. However, in general, to go to the airport is an easy thing. People, most people hire taxis or if they have someone with a private car to give them a ride, it is even better because there are no cars to go to the airport.

The main airports in Iraq are Baghdad International Airport in Baghdad, and Al-Basra Airport, and Arbil Airport. The arrival is usually, as I said, very easy but the fee is very high honestly because somewhat the drivers, taxi drivers, take advantage of the situation because they know that this person is traveling, so he must have been taking so a lot of money.

About CultureTalk: CultureTalk is produced by the Five College Center for the Study of World Languages and housed on the LangMedia Website. The project provides students of language and culture with samples of people talking about their lives in the languages they use everyday. The participants in CultureTalk interviews and discussions are of many different ages and walks of life. They are free to express themselves as they wish. The ideas and opinions presented here are those of the participants. Inclusion in CultureTalk does not represent endorsement of these ideas or opinions by the Five College Center for the Study of World Languages, Five Colleges, Incorporated, or any of its member institutions: Amherst College, Hampshire College, Mount Holyoke College, Smith College and the University of Massachusetts at Amherst.
