English translation:

Heba: How is family life in Jordan?

Hadeel: People have laid back lives in Jordan. They live a comfortable life despite the fact that they are very negative. They complain, although they live in a society where everyone is family. You feel that they know each other, but they don't dare -- how can I say it -- to talk to each other. You might know that this is the daughter of a neighbor and that these children live next to you, but you can't talk to them because the society doesn't allow you. You know them by name but you don't know them. You know?
