English translation:

B: The Moroccan tea is...

N: It's different; explain to me how different the Moroccan tea is.

B: The Moroccan tea is different because we do not only use tea leaves, but also mint. Even in Morocco, the tea differs from region to another. There are regions that make it stronger than others.

N: Meaning?

B: They add a lot of tea leaves when making tea. There are other regions that do not use mint. It changes from one region to another. You also can add some herbs to it. It is very healthy; it helps you digest and other things. You cannot visit anyone without them giving you some tea because it is the national drink in Morocco. Like couscous, which is the famous Moroccan dish, tea is the famous Moroccan drink.
