

Explanation:

Turkmen women usually wear very long dresses. A head scarf is an essential part of the woman's dress. Women also put a headpiece on top of the headscarf, and its shape usually indicates to which tribe a woman belongs. In addition to that, the woman has earrings that are also made in the style that is specific to the tribe, and are made in distinct shapes. Turkmen dresses are also decorated with the piece that is put on the chest. It also has valuable stones on it and comes in different shapes. All the decorations are usually in the shape of a flower, so that it looks as if the women have flowers on them.

About CultureTalk: CultureTalk is produced by the Five College Center for the Study of World Languages and housed on the LangMedia Website. The project provides students of language and culture with samples of people talking about their lives in the languages they use everyday. The participants in CultureTalk interviews and discussions are of many different ages and walks of life. They are free to express themselves as they wish. The ideas and opinions presented here are those of the participants. Inclusion in CultureTalk does not represent endorsement of these ideas or opinions by the Five College Center for the Study of World Languages, Five Colleges, Incorporated, or any of its member institutions: Amherst College, Hampshire College, Mount Holyoke College, Smith College and the University of Massachusetts at Amherst.
